

ArtsLink Awards

connecting artists and arts organizations through international projects and residencies

At a time when residencies for international artists may be more important than ever, opportunities like those offered by CEC ArtsLink are vital for creating global understanding without borders."

– Kiki Petrosino, The International Writing Program, Iowa City, IA

As a jazz musician, I found myself in an oasis with the most beautiful fruits in the world. ...Playing with American artists was a great experience [...] that opened new windows in music for me.

– Jasna Jovicevic, Serbia

I got to understand...why I have become an artist myself. This is something that goes into your heart for life.

– Alexei Biryukoff, Russia

ArtsLink provides a unique opportunity for creative exchange and dialogue between the arts communities in the United States and abroad. Over the past 17 years, ArtsLink has made 4 million dollars in funding available to U.S. artists and arts organizations. ArtsLink offers awards through the following programs:

ArtsLink Projects support U.S. artists, curators, presenters and arts organizations to undertake projects in 32 eligible countries.

ArtsLink Residencies place artists and arts managers from 32 eligible countries—ArtsLink Fellows—at U.S. organizations for five-week residencies.

Independent Projects support artists and arts managers from 32 eligible countries who have been invited by a U.S. non-profit arts organization to undertake a self-managed project in the U.S.
